

Remember most North American births are handled by surgical doctors. That is their training. Most of them do not attend births until the last minute or unless serious complication begin. They basically order the nurses at the hospital to offer your partner interventions. You as a man better know what risks and complications can result. Protect you partner – remember women have over 5 times greater chance of dying from a cesarean section than any other type of birth, and nearly one in three are having this surgery.
