If you do trust others to handle everything, you may have to face the enemy of apathy. Not caring enough for this critical event in your life will leave you robbed of all its wonder and joy. Have you ever noticed that the person who has done all the reading and seen all the films, who has a real interest in the topic, is the one who is going to enjoy the experience the most? Apathy, or lack of interest, is just the opposite attitude. Whatever you focus on, and study, and prepare for is exactly what you are going to derive pleasure from.
